PRELIMINARY APPROVAL ORDER

[As to the Proposed Economic and Property Damages Class Action Settlement]

On April 18, 2012, Interim Class Counsel and the Plaintiffs’ Steering Committee (collectively, “PSC”) and BP Exploration & Production Inc. and BP America Production Company (collectively, “BP”) filed the “Deepwater Horizon Economic and Property Damages Settlement” (“Proposed Settlement” or “Settlement Agreement”). (Rec. Doc. 6276). Two Motions accompanied this filing and are before the Court. First, the PSC moved for an order (a) conditionally and preliminarily certifying the “Economic and Property Damages Settlement Class” for settlement purposes only, (b) appointing class representatives, and (c) appointing lead and settlement class counsel. (Rec. Doc. 6269). BP does not oppose this motion. Second, the PSC and BP jointly moved for an order (a) preliminary approving the Proposed Settlement, (b) scheduling a fairness hearing, and (c) approving the proposed notice plan. (Rec. Doc. 6266).¹

On May 2, 2012, the PSC and BP filed a Joint Supplemental Motion Related to the Economic and Property Damages Settlement, which is also before the Court. (Rec. Doc 6414).²

A. LITIGATION BACKGROUND

On April 20, 2010, a blowout, explosion, and fire occurred aboard the DEEPWATER HORIZON, a semi-submersible offshore drilling rig, as it was engaged in drilling activities on the “Macondo Well” on the Outer Continental Shelf off the coast of Louisiana. These events led to eleven deaths, dozens of injuries, and a massive discharge of oil into the Gulf of Mexico that continued for nearly three months. On August 10, 2010, the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation centralized all federal actions (excluding securities suits) in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1407. Eventually, hundreds of cases with thousands of individual claimants would be consolidated with this Multidistrict Litigation (“MDL”).

On October 19, 2010, the Court issued Pretrial Order 11 (Rec. Doc. 569) (“PTO 11”), creating pleading bundles for various types of claims. Relevant here is the “B1 bundle,” which encompasses all private claims for economic loss and property damage. (PTO 11 ¶ III(B1)). In accordance with PTO 11, the PSC filed the B1 Master Complaint on December 15, 2010 (Rec. Doc. 879), and a First Amended B1 Master Complaint on February 9, 2011 (Rec. Doc. 1128). Numerous Defendants filed motions to dismiss the First Amended B1 Complaint. On August 26, 2011, the Court issued an Order and Reasons granting in part and denying in part these motions.

² The Joint Supplemental Motion (1) added requests regarding the Economic and Property Damages Trust, (2) made minor revisions to the proposed class notice, (3) nominated a Guardian Ad Litem, (4) amended the Proposed Order to indicate that the class representatives are those identified in the Amended Class Complaint (Rec. Doc. 6412), (5) made clarifications and slight modifications to the Seafood Compensation Program, (6) and made other minor amendments to the Proposed Agreement. (See Rec. Doc. 6414-2).

(Rec. Doc. 3830). BP subsequently answered the First Amended Complaint on September 27, 2011 (Rec. Doc. 4130). Phase one of a multi-phase trial in Transocean's Limitation and Liability Action, Case No. 10-2771, was scheduled for February 27, 2012.

In the 20 months that have passed since the JPML's centralization order, the parties have engaged in extensive discovery and motion practice, including taking 311 depositions, producing approximately 90 million pages of documents, and exchanging more than 80 expert reports on an intense and demanding schedule. Depositions were conducted on multiple tracks and on two continents. Discovery was kept on course by weekly discovery conferences before Magistrate Judge Shushan. The Court also held monthly status conferences with the parties.

BP and the PSC report that in February 2011 settlement negotiations began in earnest for two distinct class action settlements: a Medical Benefits Settlement³ and an Economic and Property Damages Settlement. Talks intensified in July 2011, occurring on an almost-daily basis. In early 2012, Magistrate Judge Shushan became involved in the negotiations as neutral mediator. The parties report that over 145 day-long, face-to-face negotiation meetings took place, in addition to numerous phone calls and "WebEx Conferences." (Tr. of Prelim. Approval Hr'g, 4/25/12, p.83, Rec. Doc. 6395).⁴ On February 26, 2012, the eve of the Limitation and Liability Trial, the Court adjourned proceedings for one week to allow the parties to make further progress on their settlement talks. (Rec. Doc. 5887). On March 2, 2012, the Court was informed that BP and the PSC had reached an Agreement-in-Principle on the proposed settlements. Consequently, the Court adjourned Phase I of the trial, because of the potential for realignment of the parties in this litigation and substantial changes to the current trial plan. (Rec. Doc. 5955).

³ The proposed Medical Benefits Settlement is the subject of a separate Order.

The parties continued to work on finalizing the details of the settlements. On March 8, 2012, at the parties' request, the Court entered an Order creating a process to facilitate the transition from the Gulf Coast Claims Facility ("GCCF") to the "Court Supervised Settlement Program" envisioned by the settlement. (Rec. 5995). The Order also appointed a Transition Coordinator and Claims Administrator. In a separate Order, the Court appointed a neutral party to preside over the seafood component of the proposed settlement. (Rec. Doc. 5998). On April 16, 2012, the PSC filed a new class action complaint to serve as the vehicle for the proposed Economic and Property Damage Settlement. See No. 12-970, *Bon Secour Fisheries, Inc., et al. v. BP Exploration & Production Inc., et al.*⁵ The class action complaint was amended on May 2, 2012. (Rec. Doc. 6412). On April 18, 2012, the PSC and BP filed the instant Proposed Settlement (Rec. Doc. 6276) and Motions (Rec. Docs. 6266, 6269, 6414).

B. OVERVIEW OF THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT⁶

The Proposed Settlement intends to resolve certain claims by private individuals and businesses for economic loss and property damage resulting from the "Deepwater Horizon Incident."⁷ To effectuate the settlement, the PSC seeks to conditionally certify the "Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class" pursuant to Federal Rule 23(a) and (b)(3). The ⁵ The PSC similarly filed a new class action related to the proposed Medical Benefits Settlement. See No. 12-968, Kip Plaisance, et al. v. BP Exploration & Production Inc., et al.

⁷ The Proposed Settlement defines "Deepwater Horizon Incident" as:

the events, actions, inactions and omissions leading up to and including (i) the blowout of the MC252 WELL; (ii) the explosions and fire on board the Deepwater Horizon on or about April 20, 2010; (iii) the sinking of the Deepwater Horizon on or about April 22, 2010; (iv) the release of oil, other hydrocarbons and other substances from the MC252 Well and/or the Deepwater Horizon and its appurtenances; (v) the efforts to contain the MC252 Well; (vi) RESPONSE ACTIVITIES, including the VoO Program; (vii) the operation of the GCCF; and (viii) BP public statements relating to all of the foregoing.

(Proposed Settlement ¶ 38.43, Rec. Doc. 6276-1 at 99).

class would consist of individuals and entities defined by (1) geographic bounds and (2) the nature of their loss or damage. If both criteria are not met, or the individual or entity opts out of the class, then the individual or entity is not within the settlement class and the claims are unaffected by the Proposed Settlement. Where a person or entity has multiple claims, some falling within the settlement and some outside the settlement, only the former claims are included in the settlement. The latter claims are unaffected and reserved to the claimant.

Generally speaking, the geographic bounds of the settlement are Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and certain coastal counties in eastern Texas and western Florida, as well as specified adjacent Gulf waters, bays, etc. Individuals must have lived, worked, owned property, leased property, etc., in these areas between April 20, 2010⁸ and April 16, 2012. Similarly, entities must have conducted certain business activity in these areas between April 20, 2010⁹ and April 16, 2012.

The Proposed Settlement recognizes six categories of damage:

- (1) Economic Loss (including individual loss of wages, business economic loss, multi-facility business economic loss, start-up business economic loss, failed business economic loss, failed start-up business economic loss)
- (2) Property damage (including loss of use/enjoyment of real property, coastal real property damage, wetlands real property damage, realized real property sales loss),
- (3) Vessel of Opportunity (“VoO”) Charter Payment
- (4) Vessel Physical Damage
- (5) Subsistence Damage
- (6) Seafood Compensation Program

Certain individuals, entities, and claims are specifically excluded from the Proposed Settlement, and thus reserved to the claimant.¹⁰ Class Members may submit multiple claims and receive compensation for multiple categories of damage.

The Proposed Settlement would replace the GCCF with a “Court Supervised Settlement Program” (“Settlement Program”). The deadline for filing most claims with the Settlement Program is the later of April 22, 2014 or six months after the “Effective Date” of the Proposed Settlement.¹¹ Claims submitted to the Settlement Program will be evaluated and processed by claims administration vendors pursuant to the frameworks detailed in the Proposed Settlement for the various damage categories. The Proposed Settlement explains how compensation is determined and what documentation is required to support a claim. (Proposed Settlement § 5, and Exhibits cited therein, Rec. Doc. 6267-1). The Settlement Program also contains an internal appellate review process, and the Court maintains the discretionary right to review any appellate determination. Those who accept payments under the Proposed Settlement are required to release their claims against BP, government oil spill liability funds, and all other Defendants in MDL 2179 (except Transocean and Halliburton).¹² Under the Proposed Settlement, BP will also

¹² According to the Joint Motion for Preliminary Approval, “The intent of the Agreement is for BP to pay all compensatory damages but to allow the plaintiffs to continue to seek punitive damage recoveries from Halliburton and Transocean, which is the sole basis for the exclusion of those defendants from the release. The plaintiffs, moreover, have agreed with BP to a set of special rules to effectuate the parties’ intent to allow the plaintiffs to seek exclusively punitive damages against Halliburton and Transocean, including the plaintiffs’ (1) agreeing not to seek compensatory damages against Halliburton or Transocean; and (2) agreeing, among other protections to BP, not to execute on any compensatory damages that might be awarded to plaintiffs against Halliburton and Transocean.” (Memo. in Supp. of Joint Mot. for Prel. Approval p.11 n.6, Rec. Doc. 6266-1 at 21 n.6; see also Proposed Settlement Ex. 21, Rec. Doc. 6276-39).

assign certain of its claims against Transocean and Halliburton to the settlement class.¹³

The movers note that the Proposed Settlement is different from many other class settlements in that payments are not delayed pending the Court's fairness hearing and final approval process. If preliminary approval is given, the Settlement Program will process claims and make settlement payments to class members so long as they execute an individual release.

In addition to baseline compensation payments, some claims also will receive a Risk Transfer Premium ("RTP"), which is a multiple of the baseline compensation.¹⁴ With the exception of the Seafood Compensation Program, there is no limit on the amount to be paid by BP. The Seafood Compensation Program is a fixed sum, $2.3 billion. BP will pay all administrative costs of the Settlement Program, the cost of providing notice to the class, and reimburse claimants for accounting services required for filing their claims. BP will also provide a $57 million to promote the Gulf Coast and its waters and up to $5 million to fund a supplemental publicity campaign to be designed and administered by the PSC.

Turning to the enumerated damage categories, individual economic loss claims are calculated as the estimated difference between a claimant's expected earnings from a job within the class geography during May to December 2010 (or April 2011 in the case of certain seafood industry claimants), and the claimant's actual earnings during that claim period. Some claimants may be eligible for an RTP multiple of lost earnings. Some individuals may also receive additional compensation for lost health insurance, pension benefits, and qualified training costs and qualified job search costs. Causation is presumed for some claimants; other claimants must demonstrate that a loss is due to the oil spill as outlined by the Proposed Settlement.

¹³ For example, BP proposes to assign its claims against Transocean and Halliburton relating to the repair, replacement, and/or re-drilling of the Well and the costs BP incurred to control the well and/or respond to and clean up the spill. (Proposed Settlement, Ex. 21 ¶ 1.1.3, Rec. Doc. 6276-39).

¹⁴ For example, if base compensation is $2, and there is an RTP of 3, then the total compensation paid is $8 [2 + (2x3) = 8]. "RTP payments are meant to compensate class members for pre-judgment interest, the risk of oil returning, consequential damages, inconvenience, aggravation, the risk of future loss, the lost value of money, compensation for emotional distress, liquidation of legal disputes about punitive damages, and other factors." (Memo in Supp. of Joint Mot. for Prel. Approval p.14, Rec. Doc. 6266-1 at 24).

For existing businesses, economic loss claims are determined using a two-step process. Step one calculates the value of the business's reduction in profit during a claimant-selected loss period (any three or more consecutive months of the eight months following the spill). Step two accounts for expected profits by estimating the business's growth trend along with a general, economy-wide growth factor. The sum of step one (loss calculation) and step two (expected profit but for spill) results in the business claimant's base compensation amount. This amount may be enhanced by an RTP and/or offset by prior payments received, depending on the type of business. Again, causation is presumed for some businesses, and must be shown for others. The Proposed Settlement outlines other processes for multi-facility businesses, failed businesses, start-up businesses, and failed start-up businesses.

Claimants with eligible coastal real property are compensated for loss of use and enjoyment by multiplying the "2010 Applicable Property Tax" (defined as 1.18% of the "County Appraised Value") by 30%-40% (percentage depending on the presence of oil and the environmental sensitivity of the property). This amount is enhanced by an RTP of 2.5.¹⁵ Additional compensation is available if claimants establish physical damage from response operations. Compensation schemes for wetlands real property are based on whether parcels contained oil. Oiled parcels are paid a minimum of $35,000 per acre. Where no oil was observed, compensation is a minimum of $4,500 per acre. Wetlands real property claims are enhanced by an RTP of 2.5. The Proposed Settlement also provides compensation for certain individuals and entities that realized sales losses as a result of the spill. The compensation amount is 12.5% of the sale price.

In any event, the minimum base compensation (the pre-RTP calculation) is $800-$1,100.

All working VoO participants (those who were dispatched or placed on-hire under the VoO program) may receive between $41,600 and $88,400 (depending on the size of the vessel), representing 26 days' work under the VoO Master Vessel Charter Agreement. Working VoO participants (who are not participants in the Seafood Compensation Program) that will also receive economic loss compensation, will have economic loss compensation reduced by any "VoO Settlement Payment Offset"¹⁶ and "VoO Earned Income Offset."¹⁷ VoO participants that were never placed on hire to perform actual services may receive between $4,800 and $10,200 (depending on the size of the vessel), with no offset.

Vessel owners whose vessels were physically damaged as a result of the oil spill or cleanup operations may recover the lesser of the costs necessary to conduct a reasonable repair or replace the vessel.

As to subsistence claimants—those individuals who fish, hunt, or harvest Gulf of Mexico natural resources, including seafood and game, in a traditional or customary manner and to sustain the basic dietary, economic, shelter, tool, or clothing needs of themselves and their families—they are entitled to compensation for the total value of the subsistence natural resources that they lost due to the oil spill, plus an RTP enhancement.

¹⁶ "VoO Settlement Payment Offset" is defined as "the offset whereby the Total Compensation Amount for a Natural Person or Entity relating to a non-Seafood-related business directly involving the use of the vessel that performed the VoO services, or employment in such business or service, shall be reduced by 50% of the amount of the Working VoO Participant Settlement Payment. The VoO Settlement Payment Offset shall be applied after the addition of any applicable RTP to the base Economic Damage Compensation Amount, excluding prior income from the VoO Charter Payments." (Proposed Settlement § 38.163, Rec. Doc. 6276-1).

¹⁷ "VoO Earned Income Offset" is defined as "the offset whereby, if a VoO Charter Payment Claimant has previously been paid under a VoO Master Vessel Charter Agreement, the Claimant's Compensation Amount for its Claim relating to a non-Seafood-related business directly involving the use of the vessel that performed the VoO services, or employment in such business or service, shall be reduced by 33% of the amount previously paid for services performed under a VoO Master Vessel Charter Agreement. This reduction shall be applied after the addition of any applicable RTP to the base Economic Damage Compensation Amount, excluding prior income from the VoO Charter Payments." (Proposed Settlement § 38.161, Rec. Doc. 6276-1).

The Seafood Compensation Program is a $2.3 billion fund to compensate economic losses of commercial fishermen, seafood boat captains, all other seafood crew, oyster leaseholders, and seafood vessel owners. The Seafood Compensation Program contains five separate plans to provide compensation, each with its own eligibility, documentation requirements, and compensation methods. There are also RTPs ranging from 2.25 to 8.75.

Finally, BP has agreed to pay any award for common benefit and/or Rule 23(h) attorneys' fees, as determined by the Court, up to $600 million. The Joint Motion for Preliminary Approval and the Proposed Settlement state that the parties began negotiating this amount only after there was agreement on all material terms of this Proposed Settlement and the Medical Benefits Proposed Settlement and that information had been delivered to the Court. Consequently, the PSC has moved to modify the existing Hold-Back Order so that no payments made by and through the Settlement Program will be held back, reserved, or deducted. (Rec. Doc. 6286).

C. LEGAL STANDARDS

1. Preliminary Approval

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23 governs class actions, including the requirements for class certification and settlement. “‘Before an initial class ruling, a proposed class settlement may be effectuated by stipulation of the parties agreeing to a temporary settlement class for purposes of settlement only.’” In re Chinese-Manufactured Drywall Prods. Liab. Litig., MDL No. 2047, 2012 WL 92498, at *8 (E.D. La. Jan. 10, 2012) (quoting 4 William B. Rubinstein et al., Newberg on Class Actions § 11:22 (4th ed. 2010)); see also Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) [MCL 4th] § 21.612 (2004) (“Parties quite frequently enter into settlement agreements before a decision has been reached whether to certify a class.”). “Settlement classes—cases certified as class actions solely for settlement—can provide significant benefits to class members and enable the defendants to achieve final resolution of multiple suits.” MCL 4th § 21.612. However, even in this context the requirements for class certification in Rule 23(a) and (b) must be satisfied, except that a court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems under Rule 23(b)(3)(D). Id. § 22.921 (citing Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620-21 (1997)). Additionally, the terms of the proposed settlement must comport with Rule 23(e).

Courts have developed a two-step process when considering a proposed settlement of a class action. See Chinese-Manufactured Drywall, 2012 WL 92498, at *7 (citations omitted). First, if the class was not previously certified, the Court “should make a preliminary determination that the proposed class satisfies the criteria set out in Rule 23(a) and at least one of the subsections of Rule 23(b).” Id. (quoting MCL 4th § 21.632). Also, the Court must “make a preliminary determination on the fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the settlement terms and must direct the preparation of notice of the certification, proposed settlement, and date of the final fairness hearing.” Id. (quoting MCL 4th § 21.632). Second, if preliminary approval is granted and following the notice and opt-out period, the Court holds a Rule 23(e)(2) final fairness hearing to decide whether to approve or disapprove the settlement. See id. Final determination on class certification is also reserved for the final fairness review.

2. Rule 23(a) and (b) Criteria for Class Certification

With respect to class certification, Rule 23(a) requires that:

- (1) the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable;
- (2) there are questions of law or fact common to the class;
- (3) the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the class; and
- (4) the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a). “The first two requirements focus on the characteristics of the class; the second two focus instead on the desired characteristics of the class representatives.” Chinese-Manufactured Drywall, 2012 WL 92498 at *8 (quotations and citations omitted). This assures that courts will identify the common interests of class members and evaluate the named plaintiffs’ and class counsel’s ability to fairly and adequately protect class interests. Id.

As to Rule 23(a)(1)’s “numerosity” requirement, the mover typically must show that “joinder is impracticable through ‘some evidence or reasonable estimate of the number of purported class members.’” Id. at *9 (quoting In re Vioxx Prods. Liab. Litig., 239 F.R.D. 450, 459 (E.D.La.2006)). However, “a good-faith estimate of the class size is sufficient when the precise number of class members is not readily ascertainable.” 1 William B. Rubenstein, Newberg on Class Actions §§ 3:12, 3:13 (5th ed. 2011). Numerosity frequently receives summary treatment and is often uncontested. Id. Rule 23(a)(2)’s “commonality” requirement is not demanding; it is met “when there is at least one issue, the resolution of which will affect all or a significant number of the putative class members.” Mullen v. Treasure Chest Casino, LLC, 186 F.3d 620, 625 (5th Cir. 1999) (quotations and citations omitted). Rule 23(a)(3)’s “typicality” requirement is also not demanding; it “focuses on the similarity between the named plaintiffs’ legal and remedial theories and the theories of those whom they purport to represent.” Id. The typicality inquiry does not test whether the class members suffered varying harms; diversity in damages “will not affect their legal or remedial theories, and thus does not defeat typicality.” Id. Rule 23(a)(4)’s “adequacy” requirement is satisfied where: “(1) the named plaintiffs’ counsel will prosecute the action zealously and competently; (2) the named plaintiffs possess a sufficient level of knowledge about the litigation to be capable of taking an active role in and exerting control over the prosecution of the litigation; and (3) there are no conflicts of interest between the named plaintiffs and the absent class members.” Hamilton v. First Am. Title

Ins. Co., 266 F.R.D. 153, 163-64 (N.D. Tex., 2010); see also Feder v. Elec. Data Sys. Corp., 429 F.3d 125, 129 (5th Cir. 2005). Finally, Rule 23(a) also contains an implied requirement that the class be adequately defined and clearly ascertainable. Union Asset Mgmt. Holding A.G. v. Dell, Inc., 669 F.3d 632, 639 (5th Cir. 2012).

As mentioned, in addition to the requirements of Rule 23(a), one of the subsections of Rule 23(b) must be satisfied in order to be certified as a class. Here, the PSC moves under Rule 23(b)(3), which provides:

A class action may be maintained if Rule 23(a) is satisfied and if:

(3) the court finds that the questions of law or fact common to class members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and that a class action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy. The matters pertinent to these findings include:

- (A) the class members' interests in individually controlling the prosecution or defense of separate actions;
- (B) the extent and nature of any litigation concerning the controversy already begun by or against class members;
- (C) the desirability or undesirability of concentrating the litigation of the claims in the particular forum; and
- (D) the likely difficulties in managing a class action.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3). “To succeed under Rule 23(b)(3), Plaintiffs must sufficiently demonstrate both predominance of common class issues and that the class action mechanism is the superior method of adjudicating the case.” Chinese-Manufactured Drywall, 2012 WL 92498 at *9 (citations and quotations omitted). The predominance inquiry tests “whether proposed classes are sufficiently cohesive to warrant adjudication by representation.” Amchem, 521 U.S. at 623 (citation omitted). “To predominate, common issues must form a significant part of individual cases.” In re Vioxx, 239 F.R.D. at 460 (citing Mullen, 186 F.3d at 626). Because class certification is for settlement-only purposes, the Court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems. Amchem, 521 U.S. at 620. “Together subsection (a) and (b) requirements insure that a proposed class has sufficient unity so that the absent class members can fairly be bound by decisions of the class representatives. Chinese-Manufactured Drywall, 2012 WL 92498 at *8 (citations and quotations omitted).

3. Rule 23(e) Criteria for Preliminary Approval of a Proposed Class Settlement

Turning to the terms of the settlement, Rule 23(e) places the burden of persuasion on the movers that the proposed settlement is “fair, reasonable, and adequate.” Id. at *7. However, the standards for granting preliminary approval are not as stringent as those applied to a motion for final approval: “The questions are simpler, and the court is not expected to, and probably should not, engage in analysis as rigorous as is appropriate for final approval.” In re OCA, Inc. Securities & Derivative Litig., No. 05-2165, 2008 WL 4681369, at *11 (E.D. La. Oct. 17, 2008) (quotations and citations omitted); see also In re Traffic Exec. Ass’n-E. R.R., 627 F.2d 631, 634 (2d Cir. 1980) (describing preliminary approval as “a determination that there is what might be termed ‘probable cause’ to submit the proposal to class members and hold a full-scale hearing as to its fairness”) (citations omitted). If the proposed settlement “discloses no reason to doubt its fairness, has no obvious deficiencies, does not improperly grant preferential treatment to class representatives or segments of the class, does not grant excessive compensation to attorneys, and appears to fall within the range of possible approval, the court should grant preliminary approval.” OCA, 2008 WL 4681369, at *11 (citations omitted). “If the Court finds portions of the proposed settlement problematic, it may indicate preliminary disapproval of the agreement and recommend that the parties make certain revisions or modifications.” Chinese-Manufactured Drywall, 2012 WL 92498, at *7.

Courts have held that “approval of settlement class actions under Rule 23(e) requires closer judicial scrutiny than approval of settlements reached only after class certification has been litigated through the adversary process.” MCL 4th § 21.612. However, “[e]xtended litigation between or among adversaries,” as occurred here, “might bolster confidence that the settlement negotiations were at arm's length.” Id. “If, by contrast, the case is filed as a settlement class action or certified for settlement with little or no discovery, it may be more difficult to assess the strengths and weaknesses of the parties’ claims and defenses, to determine the appropriate definition of the class, and to consider how class members will actually benefit from the proposed settlement.” Id.; see also id. § 22.921 (“If the case has been litigated extensively, the judge may have sufficient reliable information to determine whether the class should be certified and whether the settlement terms are the fair, reasonable, and adequate result of arms-length negotiations.”).

4. Rule(c)(2)(B) and (e)(1) Criteria Regarding Notice

Where parties seek certification of a settlement class pursuant to Rule 23(b)(3) and approval of a settlement pursuant to Rule 23(e), notice of the class settlement must meet the requirements of both Rule 23(c)(2)(B) and Rule 23(e)(1). In re CertainTeed Roofing Shingle Prods. Liab. Litig., 269 F.R.D. 468, 480 (E.D. Pa. 2010); accord In re Serzone Prods. Liab. Litig., 231 F.R.D. 221, 231 (S.D. W. Va. 2005); see also MCL 4th § 21.633 (“For economy, the notice under Rule 23(c)(2) and the Rule 23(e) notice are sometimes combined.”). Rule 23(c)(2)(B) states:

For any class certified under Rule 23(b)(3), the court must direct to class members the best notice that is practicable under the circumstances, including individual notice to all members who can be identified through reasonable effort. The notice must clearly and concisely state in plain, easily understood language:

- (i) the nature of the action;
- (ii) the definition of the class certified;
- (iii) the class claims, issues, or defenses;
- (iv) that a class member may enter an appearance through an attorney if the member so desires;
- (v) that the court will exclude from the class any member who requests exclusion;
- (vi) the time and manner for requesting exclusion; and
- (vii) the binding effect of a class judgment on members under Rule 23(c)(3).

Fed. R. Civ. Proc. 23(c)(2)(B). The notice requirements of Rule 23(e)(1) are less stringent:

(1) The court must direct notice in a reasonable manner to all class members who would be bound by the [settlement] proposal.

Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(1). Subject to the minimum requirements of due process, notice under Rule (e)(1) gives the Court discretion over the form and manner of notice. See Fowler v. Birmingham News Co., 608 F.2d 1055, 1059 (5th Cir. 1979). Significantly, compliance with Rule 23(c)(2)(B) can satisfy the Due Process Clause. See In re Enron Corp. Secs., Derivs., & "ERISA" Litig., No. MDL-1446, 2008 WL 4178151, at *2 (S.D. Tex. Sept. 8, 2008).

D. OBJECTIONS

The Court has received objections to the Joint Motion for Preliminary Approval of the Proposed Settlement from parties excluded from the proposed class definition, who urge that they should be included in the Proposed Settlement. (See Rec. Docs. 6239 (State of Florida), 6317 (Sea Farms, Inc.), 6345 & 6382 (Tobatex, Inc. and M.R.M. Energy, Inc.), 6370 (State of Miss.), 6383 (Abraham B. Bernard d/b/a United Marine Shipyard), 6406 (Asian American Hotel Owners Ass'n)). Generally, non-class members do not have standing to object to a class settlement. See 4 William B. Rubenstein, et al., Newberg on Class Actions § 11:55 (4th ed. 2011) ("Individuals who are not class members because they are outside the definition of the class or have opted out are on a different footing [from class members]. They are not subject to res judicata by the settlement. Class action settlements typically leave intact the legal claims of others. Therefore, nonsettling parties in multiparty cases ordinarily lack standing to object to settlements on appeal. Also, there is an interest in encouraging settlements, particularly in class actions, which are often complex, drawn out proceedings demanding a finite share of judicial resources."); see also McBean v. City of New York, 233 F.R.D. 377, 384 (S.D.N.Y. 2006) ("It was perfectly reasonable—and not at all unfair or un-adversarial—for class counsel to define the class in a way that, in their opinion, would lead to the best recovery for the class. Fairness does not require class counsel to act on behalf of individuals not in the class, even if at one time those individuals were included in a pretrial class definition.”). Significantly, claims excluded from the proposed settlement are unaffected and preserved. The objections of Halliburton Energy Services, Inc. (Rec. Doc. 6350), a non-settling defendant, are unavailing for similar reasons. See 4 Newberg on Class Actions § 11:55, supra.¹⁸

The Court has also received objections from parties who ostensibly meet the standing requirement. Objections raised by these parties include: (1) the Proposed Settlement does not include interim payments (State of Florida, Rec. Doc. 6239); (2) the Seafood Compensation Program does not adequately protect against future risk of fisheries damage (Gulf Organized Fisheries in Solidarity & Hope, Rec. Doc. 6353); (3) VoO charter party payments are improperly offset by economic loss payments for those not within the Seafood Compensation Program (Nat’l Ass’n of Charterboat Operators, Rec. Doc. 6402; Debbie Wilhite, Rec. Doc. 6403; Jack Wilhite, Rec. Doc. 6405; Gary Jarvis, Rec. Doc. 6406; Michael Whitley, Rec. Doc. 6407; Pamela Dana, Rec. Doc. 6408); (4) the benchmark period for the Shrimp Compensation Program should be altered so as to not require 2009 in the calculation (Unnamed Commercial Fishermen and Shrimpers, Rec. Doc. 6371); (5) the Proposed Settlement does not accurately calculate the losses of businesses in the shrimp processing industry and gives preferential treatment to shrimpers, etc., as compared to shrimp processors, etc., further down the chain of commerce (American Shrimp Processors Ass’n, Rec. Doc. 6368); (6) the Proposed Settlement improperly gives preferential treatment to hoteliers with properties near shore as compared to hoteliers with properties away from the shore (Asian American Hotel Owners Ass'n, Rec. Doc. 6404); and (7) the 6% Hold-Back should not apply where a GCCF settlement offer was accepted on March 8, 2012, during the Transition Process and prior to the Proposed Settlement (Br. of Kuzma Petrovich, Jr., Rec. Doc. 6317). The Court has considered these objections; however, in light of the standard governing preliminary approval, the opportunity for objections and opting out during the notice period, the heightened standard during the final approval stage, and the terms of the Proposed Settlement, the Court finds these objections do not warrant denial of preliminary approval.¹⁹

¹⁸ “[N]onsettling defendants in a multiple defendant litigation context have no standing to object to the fairness or adequacy of the settlement by other defendants, but they may object to any terms that preclude them from seeking indemnification from the settling defendants. Nonsettling defendants also have standing to object if they can show some formal legal prejudice to them, apart from loss of contribution or indemnity rights.” 4 Newberg on Class Actions § 11:55, supra (footnotes omitted). The terms of the proposed settlement do not appear to inhibit Halliburton’s indemnification or contribution rights, particularly given that BP would assign most of the rights it may have for contribution or indemnity to the class members, who in turn, agree not to pursue compensatory claims or execute any judgments for compensatory damages that may be awarded. See note 13, supra. It also does not appear that Halliburton has shown any other form of legal prejudice that would give it standing to object.

E. ORDER WITH REASONS

NOW, THEREFORE, based upon (i) the Settlement Agreement; (ii) the supporting briefs and papers including the Interim Class Counsel's and BP's Joint Supplemental Motion Related to the Economic and Property Damage Settlement; (iii) the proposed forms of Class Notice; (iv) the program for directing notice to the Class submitted to the Court; (v) this Court's familiarity with the questions of fact and law arising in these proceedings; (vi) this Court's observation of the conduct of counsel for the parties in prosecuting and defending this litigation, coordinating discovery, preparing for trial, and negotiating at arm's length a proposed settlement with the participation of Magistrate Judge Shushan; (vii) the recommendations of counsel for the moving parties; (viii) the requirements of substantive and procedural law; and (ix) this Court's satisfaction that the proposed settlement appears to fall within the range of possible final approval, and that a hearing should be held after the best practicable notice to members of the Class to finally determine if the terms of the proposed Settlement are fair, reasonable, and adequate within the meaning of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e),

¹⁹ As to the specific concern over the fact that the Proposed Settlement does not provide for interim payments (see Rec. Doc. 6239), the parties have represented that BP will continue to receive and process Oil Pollution Act ("OPA") claims for those excluded from the settlement class and those who opt out of the settlement class. (Tr. of Prelim. Approval Hr'g, 4/25/12, pp. 14-15, 49-50, Rec. Doc. 6395); see also Attach. "A" to Supp. Decl. of Cameron Azari, Ques. 15 & 25, Rec. Doc. 6414-4 at 15, 23). Presumably, that process will include an interim payments process, as well as any other requirements imposed by OPA. See 33 U.S.C. §§ 2705(a), 2714(b)(2).

THE FOREGOING MOTIONS (Rec. Docs. 6266, 6269) ARE GRANTED, AND IT IS HEREBY ORDERED AND DECLARED THAT:

I. Jurisdiction and Venue

1. The Court has jurisdiction over these proceedings pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 & 1333, and 33 U.S.C. § 2717(b).
2. Venue is also proper in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391 & 1407, and 33 U.S.C. § 2717(b).

II. Preliminary and Conditional Certification of Class for Settlement Purposes Only

3. On a preliminary basis and for settlement purposes only, for purposes of enabling and effectuating the issuance of notice and setting of a formal hearing to determine whether the terms of the Proposed Settlement should be finally approved as fair, reasonable, and adequate, the proposed Economic and Property Damages Settlement Class is conditionally certified under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a) & 23(b)(3). The class is defined as follows:

(a) CLASS DEFINITION²⁰

(b) Exclusions from the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Class Definition

2.1. Notwithstanding the above, the following individuals and Entities, including any and all of their past and present predecessors, successors, personal representatives, agents, trustees, insurers, reinsurers, indemnitors, subrogees, assigns, and any other Natural Person, legal or juridical person or Entity entitled to assert any Claim on behalf of or in respect of any such individual or Entity in their respective capacities as such are excluded from the Economic Class.

2.2.4.1. Financial Institutions as identified in the NAICS codes listed on Exhibit 18, which include, by way of example, commercial banks; savings institutions; credit card issuers; credit insurers; factors or other sales finance entities; financial or investment advisers or portfolio managers; fund managers; investment banking entities; lending institutions; real estate mortgage or lending entities; brokers or dealers of securities, commodities, commodity contracts or loans; securities or commodities exchanges; entities serving as custodians, fiduciaries or trustees of securities or other financial assets; or entities engaged in other financial transaction intermediation, processing, reserve or clearinghouse activities, provided, that the following shall not be excluded solely pursuant to this Section 2.2.4.1 unless they are subject to a different exclusion: stand-alone ATMs, credit unions, pawn shops, businesses engaged predominantly in making payday loans or paycheck advances and businesses that sell goods and services and offer financing on these purchases to their customers.

2.2.4.4. Insurance Entities, as identified in the NAICS codes listed on Exhibit 18, which include, by way of example, insurance carriers issuing disability, health, life, medical, property and casualty, title or other insurance; reinsurers; insurance agencies and brokerages; underwriting agencies or organizations; claims adjusters and processors; third-party insurance or fund administrators; or other insurance-related businesses.

2.2.4.5. Oil and Gas Industry, as identified in the NAICS codes listed on Exhibit 17, which includes by way of example, firms engaged in: extracting crude petroleum, natural gas or other hydrocarbons; drilling wells; preparing, maintaining or constructing petroleum or natural gas well-sites or other mineral extraction sites; mining; maintaining or constructing petroleum or natural gas pipeline or distribution facilities; pipeline distribution of crude petroleum, refined petroleum, oil or natural gas; petroleum or natural gas refining or other mineral refining and/or manufacturing; manufacturing petroleum lubricating oil and grease, petrochemical products, or other petroleum and coal products or chemical products derived from extracted minerals; merchant wholesaling of construction and mining (except oil well) machinery and equipment; wholesale distribution of oil well machinery, equipment and supplies; wholesale distribution of petroleum, petroleum products, other extracted minerals, chemical products produced from extracted or refined minerals, petroleum bulk stations and terminals, petroleum and petroleum products merchant wholesalers.

This includes, but is not limited to, any Entity developing an entire subdivision (as defined by the law of the state in which the parcel is located) of Real Property, including condominiums with multiple residential units and/or a residential subdivision with contiguous home sites and homes, provided, however, that Real Estate Developers shall be eligible to assert Coastal Real Property Claims under Section 5.7 and Real Property Sales Damage Claims under Section 5.9

2.2.4.8. Any Entity selling or marketing BP-branded fuel, including jobbers and branded dealers.

2.2.5. GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS, as defined in this Agreement, provided that Native American tribal Entities may consent to participate in the Settlement as to otherwise eligible Claims.

2.2.6. Any Natural Person or Entity who or that made a claim to the GCCF, was paid and executed a GCCF RELEASE AND COVENANT NOT TO SUE, provided, however, that the execution of a GCCF Release and Covenant Not to Sue shall not prevent a Natural Person or Entity from making a VoO Charter Payment Claim or a Vessel Damage Claim, nor shall a release covering only bodily injury prevent a Natural Person from making Claims under this Agreement.

4. With respect to the Economic Class Definition, the Court hereby adopts the defined terms and definitions set forth in the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Agreement. The Proposed Settlement and its Exhibits shall be provided to potential class members via the Notice Plan, such as by posting on the Settlement website.

5. The Court preliminarily and conditionally finds, for settlement purposes only, that the terms of the Proposed Settlement are sufficiently fair, reasonable, adequate, and consistent with governing law to warrant: (a) preliminary approval; (b) the preliminary and conditional certification of the settlement class; (c) the scheduling of the Fairness Hearing; (d) the distribution of Notice to the Class.

6. The Court is satisfied for preliminary purposes that a settlement class made up of persons or entities having claims in the specified categories should be conditionally certified. The Court is further satisfied that, pursuant to the terms of the Proposed Settlement, Class Members who opt out or who possess reserved claims will be able to pursue those claims effectively outside the Class Settlement.

7. Specifically, this Court finds and holds that the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class satisfies the following requirements of class action case law, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 23(a), and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3):

(a) Ascertainability: The Class, as defined above, is discrete and ascertainable. It is objectively defined by reference to geographical boundaries and other criteria that are known to or knowable by Class Members, and by detailed compensation frameworks that include eligibility criteria, such that those within the geographical bounds of the Class can determine whether they have experienced any of the categories of cognizable injury that are payable under the Settlement Agreement and that qualify them for Class membership.

- (b) Numerosity: The Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class consists of more than one-hundred thousand individuals and businesses dispersed across the Gulf Coast that either (1) have already filed short-form joinders; (2) have claims pending before the Gulf Coast Claims Facility (“GCCF”); (3) filed a separate lawsuit; or (4) were harmed by the Deepwater Horizon spill but have not filed a claim. The class is so numerous that joinder is impractical. Hence, Rule 23(a)(1)’s numerosity requirement is satisfied.
- (c) Commonality: The commonality requirement is satisfied because members of the Class share numerous common legal and factual questions, the resolution of which would advance the determination of one or more issues in the case. See Mullen v. Treasure Chest Casino, LLC, 186 F.3d 620, 625 (1999). Common factual issues include (1) BP’s share of liability compared to other defendants, (2) the facts of BP’s conduct in designing the well, and (3) the facts of BP’s conduct in seeking to control and contain the spill. The answers to such questions are the same no matter who in the Class asks them, or how many times they are asked. Common legal issues arising under federal law include (1) preemption questions regarding the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act, the Clean Water Act, and federal maritime law; (2) statutory construction issues under each of these statutes, including the standard of causation that applies under the Oil Pollution Act, and (3) questions under federal maritime law, including the standard under which punitive damages are available. The questions are capable of classwide resolution, and the answers to these common questions are both critical to the litigation and have shaped the terms and conditions of the proposed Settlement. Accordingly, Rule 23(a)(2)’s commonality requirement is satisfied.
- (d) Typicality: The claims of the Class Representatives are typical of the claims of the Class. The Class Representatives’ claims arise from the same underlying event and course of conduct; the Class Representatives share the same federal legal theories as the claims of the Class Members; and the Class Representatives include at least one representative asserting each category of loss covered by the proposed Settlement. Typicality “focuses on the similarity between the named plaintiffs’ legal and remedial theories and the theories of those whom they purport to represent.” Mullen v. Treasure Chest Casino, LLC, 186 F.3d 620, 625 (5th Cir. 1999). In addition, the Class Representatives will advance the interests of all Class Members. Rule 23(a)(3)’s typicality requirement is therefore satisfied.
- (e) Adequacy: “Rule 23(a)(4) is satisfied where: (1) the named plaintiffs’ counsel will prosecute the action zealously and competently; (2) the named plaintiffs possess a sufficient level of knowledge about the litigation to be capable of taking an active role in and exerting control over the prosecution of the litigation; and (3) there are no conflicts of interest between the named plaintiffs and the absent class members.” Hamilton v. First Am. Title Ins. Co., 266 F.R.D. 153, 163-64 (N.D. Tex., 2010); see also Feder v. Elec. Data Sys. Corp., 429 F.3d 125, 129 (5th Cir. 2005). Here, the Class Representatives have been consulted and participated in the determination of the settlement terms, will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class, have no conflicts with each other, and are represented by qualified counsel who are competent to represent the Class and prosecute this litigation. The Class Counsel regularly engage in complex litigation similar to the present case and have demonstrated their dedication by devoting substantial effort, energy, and resources to the prosecution of this action. See Stimson v. Exxon Corp., 280 F.3d 554, 563 (5th Cir. 2002). Accordingly, Rule 23(a)(4)’s adequacy requirement is met.

- (f) Predominance: This is, unlike most mass torts, a single-incident disaster, governed predominantly by a single body of federal law including OPA and uniform federal maritime law. Common factual and legal questions include liability for economic damages arising from the blowout of the MC252 Well and the sinking of the Deepwater Horizon. In the absence of settlement, as the design of Phase I of the Limitation and Liability Trial illustrates, liability would be determined predominately under a single body of federal statutory and/or common law. As noted above, there are dozens of legal and factual issues that are common to the class and the resolution of which will determine the liability of BP to the class in one proceeding. In contrast to these numerous common issues, the individual questions are few, and generally only concern issues of individual causation and damage calculation. Recognizing the significance of the common issues to this case long before a settlement was contemplated, the Court (1) stayed the resolution of all motions affecting only individual cases, see Pretrial Order 15 (Rec. Doc. 676), and (2) designed a phased trial structure in which the first three phases were allocated to the resolution of common issues, see Pretrial Order 41, as amended (Rec. Doc. 4083). The proposed Economic Class is sufficiently cohesive to warrant adjudication by representation. The claims are related, cohesive, and all arise out of the same nucleus of operative facts. See Amchem Prods. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 620-21 (1997); Sullivan v. DB Invs., Inc., 667 F.3d 273, 297, 338 (3d Cir. 2011) (en banc), cert. denied; Murray v. Sullivan, --- S. Ct. ---, No. 11-1111, 2012 WL 779996 (U.S. Apr. 2, 2012). Accordingly, Rule 23(b)(3)’s predominance requirement is satisfied.
- (g) Superiority: This Court need not decide whether a class is superior from the standpoint of trial management, nor need the parties agree or concede on this point. When confronted with a “request for settlement-only class certification, a district court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable management problems . . . for the proposal is that there be no trial.” Amchem, 521 U.S. at 620 (citation omitted); Billitteri v. Sec. Am., Inc., 2011 WL 3586217, at *8 (N.D. Tex. Aug. 4, 2011); In re Chinese-Manufactured Dry Wall Prods., Liab. Litig., 2012 WL 92498 (E.D. La. Jan.

10, 2012). This is an appropriate case for class treatment, as the litigation is unusually complex and expensive, and it involves many thousands of plaintiffs whose claims arise from the same event, some with comparatively modest claims. Class treatment therefore allows many plaintiffs to recover who might otherwise be unable to do so. Moreover, a settlement that provides a comprehensive, court-supervised, and internally consistent mechanism for compensating plaintiffs is superior to many thousands of separate determinations of damages. The litigation of these issues on a case-by-case basis could give rise to disproportionate and undue expense and delay for the Parties, and such piecemeal litigation would needlessly tax the resources of the judiciary and the Parties. A class action procedure, with clearly defined roles for the parties, their counsel, and the Court, and the due process protections for absent class member claimants uniquely afforded by Rule 23, is available here, and it is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently resolving this controversy. Rule 23(b)(3)'s superiority requirement is satisfied.

III. Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement and Fairness Hearing

8. The Court preliminarily approves the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Agreement filed with this Court on April 18, 2012 (Rec. Doc. 6276-1), as amended as set forth in Interim Class Counsel's and BP's Joint Supplemental Motion Related to the Economic and Property Damages Settlement, as fair, reasonable, adequate, entered in good faith, free of collusion, and within the range of possible judicial approval.

9. The Court finds, upon its own observation and experience over the course of this litigation, including monthly status conferences, weekly discovery conferences, extensive pleadings and motion practice, the design, organization and scheduling of a multi-phase trial, and the intensive discovery and preparation for these trial phases, that counsel for the Parties have significant experience in litigating complex litigation and class actions in general, have comprehensive knowledge of the issues in this litigation, and brought this experience and information to bear in negotiating a settlement suited to the circumstances of this litigation.

10. The Parties engaged in a multi-month, extensive, arms-length settlement process, free of collusion, and overseen by Magistrate Judge Shushan. The Parties engaged in substantial discovery and motion practice to evaluate the merits of the claims and defenses and extensively investigated and analyzed the facts and legal issues surrounding those claims and defenses. Pretrial discovery and trial preparation included approximately 311 depositions, the production, review, and analysis of millions of documents; the retention and discovery of numerous scientific, technical, and industry experts; and the extensive associated investigation and analyses of the facts and legal issues surrounding relevant claims and defenses.

11. Over the course of these many months, the Parties' counsel, assisted and informed by experts and colleagues with specialized knowledge of various aspects of the litigation and the array of claims categories, engaged in numerous and ongoing settlement discussions and negotiation sessions, both in person and via telephone conference. These activities were conducted by the authorized representatives (including, for the Plaintiffs, Plaintiffs' Co-Liaison/Interim Class Counsel and many members of the Court-appointed PSC) and proceeded without disrupting, delaying, or detracting from the Parties' thorough trial preparations, under the brisk and systematic trial preparation schedule set and maintained by this Court. During these lengthy settlement negotiations, which commenced in February 2011 and continued for more than one year, the Parties negotiated the detailed, complex, and carefully thought-out claims categories and benefits of this settlement. Likewise, the Parties negotiated the precise language and terms of the Proposed Settlement and Exhibits; the proposed administrative and transition orders; the claims forms and procedures to enable Class members to make claims under the settlement without delay; and the comprehensive Notice Plan to provide notice of the settlement, the approval process, and the dates, deadlines, and options that are important to the Class.

12. As part of these negotiations, the Parties, with the assistance of several types of subject matter experts, engaged in an extensive analysis of various types of economic injuries sustained by class members as a result of the Deepwater Horizon Incident. Based on this comprehensive analysis and investigation, counsel for the Parties had a solid basis for concluding that the Proposed Settlement provides meaningful benefits for class members that may have suffered economic losses as a result of the Deepwater Horizon Incident.

13. The Parties requested that this Court facilitate the transition from the GCCF to a Court-Supervised program, negotiated the details of a transition process, and submitted these processes to enable the Court to issue a series of Transition Orders commencing on March 8, 2012. The transition processes described in these orders were designed by the Parties to effectuate the directive of the Court that such transition take place without material interruption or delay to the processing and payment of claims pending in the GCCF, and to effectuate as seamless as practicable a transition to a Court-Supervised process. The Parties also designed, and made preparations for the immediate establishment, staffing, and operation of a Court-Supervised Settlement Program to commence delivery of the benefits of the settlement immediately upon entry of this Order.

14. The comprehensive system of claims frameworks featured in the Settlement Agreement is the product of many months of intensive negotiation, provides for class recovery unlimited by any aggregate cap, does not constitute a limited fund to be divided among competing claimants (with the sole exception of the $2.3 billion Seafood Compensation Program, whose allocation was placed with a court-appointed neutral), and does not place class members in conflict or competition with each other. The settlement thus provides “a procedure for distribution of the settlement fund that treats class claimants equitably amongst themselves.” In re Katrina Canal Breaches Litig., 628 F.3d 185, 189 (5th Cir. 2010). The Parties agreed that claims may be made and paid under the terms of the Proposed Settlement without the imprimatur of final settlement approval. This is an unusual and particularly beneficial feature of the Proposed Settlement for Class Members, as is the provision that any Class Counsel fees and costs awarded by the Court will not be deducted from Class Members' recoveries or their private attorneys' fees, but will be paid by BP in addition to other class benefits.

15. At this stage, the Settlement Agreement appears fair, has no obvious deficiencies, does not improperly grant preferential treatment to the Class Representatives or to segments of the Class, and does not grant excessive compensation to attorneys. It falls within the range of possible judicial approval. The Proposed Settlement thus merits preliminary approval, particularly in light of the law collected in the Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) §§ 21.612, 21.62, and 21.632 (2004).

16. This preliminary approval is subject to further and final consideration at a Fairness Hearing (the "Fairness Hearing"), which shall be held at 8:30 a.m. on November 8, 2012, before this Court in Courtroom C268 of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana, 500 Poydras Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, 70130. The Class will be provided notice of the date, time, place and purpose of the Fairness Hearing as set forth in the Notice Plan approved and issued in connection with this Order. The Court may adjourn the Fairness Hearing, as necessary, upon notice (e.g. via the Court and Settlement websites) to the members of the Settlement Class.

17. At the Fairness Hearing, this Court will consider: (1) whether to grant final approval of the Proposed Settlement pursuant to Rule 23(e) as fair, reasonable, adequate, and in the best interests of the Class and to authorize all acts necessary to consummate and effectuate the terms and conditions of the Proposed Settlement; (2) whether the Court should certify the Class for settlement purposes only; (3) whether the Court should enter a Final Judgment approving the Settlement and dismissing the Action with prejudice while retaining jurisdiction to enforce the Final Judgment, Settlement Agreement, and any follow-on litigation, including litigation concerning Individual Releases signed pursuant to the Settlement Agreement's claims process; (4) whether the fees and expenses submitted by Class Counsel should be approved; (5) the merits of any objections to the Settlement; and (6) such other matters as the Court may deem necessary and appropriate.

18. In considering whether to grant final approval to the Settlement Agreement after the Fairness hearing, the Court will review the six "Reed factors":

- (1) [T]he existence of fraud or collusion behind the settlement;
- (2) the complexity, expense, and likely duration of the litigation;
- (3) the stage of the proceedings and the amount of discovery completed;
- (4) the probability of plaintiffs' success on the merits;
- (5) the range of possible recovery; and
- (6) the opinions of the class counsel, class representatives, and absent class members.

Dell*, 669 F.3d 632, 639 (5th Cir. 2012); In re Katrina Canal Breaches Litig., 628 F.3d at 194; Newby v. Enron Corp., 394 F.3d 296, 301 (5th Cir. 2004).

Docs. 506, 508, 4226), are hereby appointed to serve as Class Counsel for the Settlement Class under Rules 23(e) and 23(g), and shall act on behalf of the Class Representatives and all members of the Settlement Class:

Brian H. Barr	Rhon E. Jones

Robert T. Cunningham	Paul M. Sterbcow
Alphonso Michael Espy	Scott Summy
Calvin C. Fayard, Jr.	Mikal C. Watts
Robin L. Greenwald	Conrad S. P. Williams

21. The Individuals and Entities identified as individual and representative Plaintiffs in the Amended Class Action Complaint for Private Economic Losses and Property Damages captioned Bon Secour Fisheries, Inc., et al. v. BP Exploration & Production Inc., et al., Civil Action, No. 12-970, filed herein on May 2, 2012 (Rec. Doc. 6412) are hereby appointed as the Class Representatives of the conditionally certified Economic Class, for settlement purposes only.

22. This Order is entered for the purposes of initiating, implementing, and facilitating the procedures contained in Fifth Circuit law and those recommended in the Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) to give notice to the entire Class and proceed toward the Fairness Hearing, to assist the Class Members in learning of their rights and options under the Settlement, and to assist the Court in making its independent, informed, and final determination as to whether the Settlement Agreement merits final approval and whether the Economic Class certification should be confirmed under Rules 23(a), (b)(3), and (e), for the collective purpose of effectuating the settlement. If this Settlement Agreement is terminated or is not consummated for any reason, the foregoing certification of the Class and appointment of Class Counsel and Class Representatives shall be vacated and of no further effect with respect to any party to, or claim asserted in, this action.

23. The Court appoints Patrick Juneau as Claims Administrator to oversee the Claims Administration Vendors, who will process the claims in accordance with the Settlement Agreement. The Court appoints Garden City Group, Inc., BrownGreer PLC, PwC, and Postlethwaite & Netterville as Claims Administration Vendors. The Court previously appointed Mr. Juneau and Lynn Greer of BrownGreer in connection with the Transition Process established by a prior Order (Rec. Doc. 5995). Given their prior transitional appointments, Mr. Juneau, Ms. Greer, and her firm, BrownGreer, are well-positioned to begin implementation of the claims process established in the Settlement Agreement along with PwC and Postlethwaite & Netterville, pending review of the Settlement Agreement in connection with the Fairness Hearing to be held November 8, 2012. The Deepwater Horizon Court Supervised Settlement Program shall commence operation on June 4, 2012, unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

24. This Court, BP, or Lead Class Counsel may request reports or information from the Claims Administrator. The Claims Administrator shall be responsible for reporting and providing information to the Court, BP, and Lead Class Counsel periodically, or at such frequency and in such a manner as the Court directs.

25. This Court shall have ongoing and exclusive jurisdiction over the Claims Administrator and Claims Administration Vendors and shall retain such jurisdiction through and after the Settlement Agreement's Effective Date, in the event it occurs.

26. The Honorable P. Raymond Lamonica, solely in his individual capacity, is appointed as the Guardian Ad Litem for the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Class Members who are minors, lack capacity, or are incompetent in accordance with Section 31 of the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Agreement and subject to appropriate commercial terms. Such appointment shall remain in effect until the entry of a Final Order and Judgment, if that event occurs, or the date the Agreement terminates, whichever occurs first. By agreement of the Parties, reasonable fees and costs of the Guardian Ad Litem shall be "Settlement Costs" within the meaning of the Settlement Agreement. See Settlement Agreement Section 5.12.1.1.3.

The Guardian Ad Litem's duty in Section 31.1 of the Settlement Agreement to "investigate the potential claims for all persons who are minors or incompetent adults, who, but for their lack of capacity, may otherwise participate as Economic Class Members" shall be interpreted to mean that the Guardian Ad Litem shall inquire of existing minor or incompetent claimants that the Guardian Ad Litem learns of whether they have any claims falling into any Category covered by and not excluded from the Settlement Agreement.

27. The Guardian Ad Litem shall make an independent investigation into the terms and provisions of the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Agreement on behalf of those class members who are minors, lack capacity, or are incompetent, as described in Section 31 of the Medical Benefits Settlement Agreement. Based on that investigation, prior to the Fairness Hearing, the Guardian Ad Litem shall by October 8, 2012, report to the Parties and make a recommendation to this Court as to the fairness of the Economic Loss and Property Damages Settlement Agreement with respect to those class members who are minors, lack capacity, or are incompetent.

28. The Court approves the Economic and Property Damages Trust Agreement attached as Exhibit A to the parties' memorandum in support of Interim Class Counsel's and BP's Joint Supplemental Motion Related to the Economic and Property Damages Settlement, the creation of the Economic and Property Damages Trust Agreement Settlement Trust ("Settlement Trust"), and the appointment of Patrick Juneau as Trustee and J. P. Morgan Trust Company of Delaware as Directed Trustee with limited authority as set forth in the Trust Agreement. The Court also finds that the Settlement Trust fulfills the requirements for a qualified settlement fund under section 468B(d)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulation § 1.468B-1. The Court will retain continuing jurisdiction over the Settlement Trust.

V. Approval of Class Notice

29. The Court approves the form and content of the Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Notice as attached to the Declaration of Cameron R. Azari, Esq. (Rec. Doc. 6266-2) as well as the Economic and Property Damage Notice Plan described in same Exhibit, as amended as set forth in Interim Class Counsel's and BP's Joint Supplemental Motion Related to the Economic and Property Damages Settlement and Exhibit B thereto, as satisfying the requirements of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 23(c)(2)(B) and 23(e)(1), and due process.

30. The Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Notice clearly and concisely states in plain, easily understood language: (i) the nature of the action; (ii) the definition of the class certified; (iii) the class claims, issues, or defenses; (iv) that a class member may enter an appearance through an attorney if the member so desires; (v) that the Court will exclude from the class any member who requests exclusion; (vi) the time and manner for requesting exclusion; and (vii) the binding effect of a class judgment on class members. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c)(2)(B).

31. The Notice Plan contemplates direct mailed notice to individual class members, to the extent known, and their attorneys, to the extent known. In addition, the Notice Plan provides for a broad-reaching published Notice in numerous national and local media, with a notice effort covering the entire United States, primarily focusing on the main impact States of Louisiana, Alabama, and Mississippi, and enumerated counties in Texas and Florida. Furthermore, banner notice ads will appear on national and local web properties. A complete copy of the Proposed Settlement with exhibits will be provided to any individuals or entities wishing to determine whether they are class members and what their rights are under the Proposed Settlement. There will also be a case website where potential class members can obtain additional information and documents, including a list of frequently asked questions that will be regularly updated to provide useful information about the Settlement. This Notice Plan provides the best notice practicable under the circumstances pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(c)(2)(B).

32. In addition, the Court finds that the Notice and the Notice Plan comply with Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(1)'s requirement that the Court direct notice to Class Members in a reasonable manner. The notice is reasonably calculated to inform interested parties of the pendency of the settlement and afford them an opportunity to determine whether they are class members, seek all relevant information about the Proposed Settlement, determine their rights under the Proposed Settlement, and present their objections, if any.

33. In conclusion, the Court finds that the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Notice and the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Notice Plan will provide notice in a reasonable manner to all class members who would be bound by the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement, including individual notice to all members who can be identified through reasonable effort. The Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Notice and the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Notice Plan constitute the best notice that is practicable under the circumstances.

34. This Court orders that the Class Notice shall be disseminated as set forth in the Notice Plan.

35. The Court directs counsel for the Parties, no later than ten days before the date of the Fairness Hearing, to file with the Court evidence that the Notice Plan has been carried out.

36. The Court appoints Hilsoft Notifications as the Class Notice Administrator to implement the Class Notice and Class Notice Plan. This Court may, at its sole discretion, request reports or information from the Notice Administrator. The Notice Administrator shall be responsible for reporting and providing information to the Court at such frequency and in such manner as the Court directs.

37. This Court shall have ongoing and exclusive jurisdiction over the Class Notice Administrator and shall retain such jurisdiction through and after the Settlement Agreement's Effective Date, in the event it occurs.

VI. Procedures and Deadlines for Objecting, Opting Out, and Appearing at the Fairness Hearing

38. Any Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Member may present written objections explaining why the Agreement should not be approved as fair, reasonable and adequate; why attorneys' fees and expenses to Economic Class Counsel should not be awarded in the amounts requested; or why judgment should not be entered as to that Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Member. Specifically, any Economic Class Member wishing to object to any aspect of the Agreement must file a written statement of the objection(s) with the Court, and serve same on Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Counsel and BP's Counsel, by first-class mail, no later than August 31, 2012. The written statement of the objection(s) must include (a) a detailed statement of the Economic Class Member's objection(s), as well as the specific reasons, if any, for each objection, including any evidence and legal authority the Class Member has to support each objection and any evidence the Class Member has in support of his/her/its objection(s); (b) the Economic Class Member's name, address and telephone number; (c) written proof that the individual or entity is in fact an Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Member, such as proof of residency, ownership of property and the location thereof, and/or business operation and the location thereof; and (d) any other supporting papers, materials or briefs the Economic Class Member wishes the Court to consider when reviewing the objection. Any Class Member who fails to comply with these provisions shall waive and forfeit any and all rights to object to the Proposed Settlement, shall be forever foreclosed from making any objection to it, and shall be bound by all the terms of the Proposed Settlement and by all proceedings, orders and judgments in this matter.

39. Any Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Member who wishes to exclude himself, herself, or itself from the Class must submit a written exclusion request, following the instructions in the Class Notice, which must be received by Garden City Group, properly addressed and postmarked no later than October 1, 2012. All such written requests must be signed by the Natural Person or Entity seeking to exclude himself, herself or itself from the Class, but may be submitted by attorneys for such Natural Persons or Entities.

40. All Economic Loss and Property Damage Class Members who do not timely and properly Opt Out shall, in all respects, be bound by all terms of this Agreement and the Final Order and Judgment, shall be entitled to all procedural opportunities and protections described herein and provided by the Court, and all compensation for which they qualify under its terms, and shall be permanently and forever barred from commencing, instituting, maintaining or prosecuting any action based on any Released Claim against any Released Parties in any court of law or equity, arbitration tribunal, administrative proceeding, or other forum.

41. Within ten days after the deadline for Class Members to request exclusion from the Class, Class Counsel and Counsel for the Released Parties shall exchange a complete list of all timely and valid requests for exclusion received as of that date. This list may be supplemented after the Fairness Hearing to the extent any additional timely and valid requests for exclusion are submitted.

42. Any Economic Class Member may revoke his, her, or its Opt Out from the Economic Class and thereby receive the benefit of this Economic and Property Damage Settlement up until three (3) days prior to the Fairness Hearing; or later, if the BP Parties consent in their sole and unilateral discretion as provided in Section 8.2.6 of the Settlement Agreement; or otherwise, if the Court so orders on good cause shown.

43. Upon entry of the Preliminary Approval Order, the statutes of limitation applicable to any and all claims or causes of action that have been or could be asserted by or on behalf of any Economic Class Member are hereby tolled and stayed. The limitations period shall not begin to run again for any Economic Class Member unless and until (a) they Opt Out of the Economic Class, or (b) they execute an Individual Release, or (c) the Agreement is terminated pursuant to Court order.

VII. Additional Directives

44. Nothing in this Order shall be construed or used as an admission, concession, or declaration by or against any of the settling Parties: (1) as to the certification of any other class in this or any other action for any purpose other than the effectuation of the proposed Settlement Agreement; or (2) as to any fault, wrongdoing, breach, or liability. This Order shall not be construed as a finding or conclusion of the Court with respect to the merit or lack of merit of any claim asserted in this action or of any defense to any claim asserted in this action. Neither the Proposed Settlement nor the Court's orders issued in connection with consideration of the Settlement, including this Order, shall be offered into evidence or used in this or any other action for any purpose, including, but not limited to, the existence, certification, or maintenance of any other class for any other purpose.

45. In no event shall the termination or non-consummation of the Proposed Settlement affect the validity or finality of any Individual Releases signed by claimants accepting payments from the Claims Administrator and Claims Administration Vendors pending final fairness review and approval of the Settlement Agreement. Pursuant to the Court's supplemental and ancillary jurisdiction to enforce and oversee its own orders, the Court assumes and retains jurisdiction to enforce any Individual Releases signed by claimants accepting payments from the Claims Administrator and Claims Administration Vendors pending final fairness review and approval of the Settlement Agreement. Additionally, if the Settlement Agreement receives final approval after the Fairness Hearing, the Court intends to retain jurisdiction over the enforcement of Individual Releases granted after the Effective Date as well.

46. Consistent with this Court's supplemental and ancillary jurisdiction, the Court explicitly retains continuing and exclusive jurisdiction over the Parties, the Economic Loss and Property Damage Settlement Class Members, and the Settlement Agreement to interpret, implement, administer, and enforce the Settlement Agreement in accord with its terms, including with respect to the validity and finality of Individual Releases signed by Settlement Class Members receiving settlement payments, during the period before the Fairness Hearing and final review of the Settlement Agreement conclude.

47. Upon consummation and approval of the Settlement provided for in the Settlement Agreement, the Settlement Agreement and each and every term and provision thereof and exhibits thereto shall be deemed incorporated herein as if explicitly set forth and shall have the full force and effect of an Order of this Court.

48. For convenience, pertinent deadlines are reproduced here:

- a) Notice to be sent out in accordance with the Notice Plan
- b) Court Supervised Settlement Program shall commence operation on June 4, 2012
- c) Motion papers in support of settlement to be filed by August 13, 2012
- d) Objections to be filed by August 31, 2012

- f) Guardian Ad Litem's Report to be filed by October 8, 2012
- g) Reply submissions to be filed by October 22, 2012
- h) Fairness hearing on November 8, 2012 at 8:30 a.m.

49. Upon motion of any Party, the Court may, for good cause, extend any of the deadlines set forth in this Order, if necessary and appropriate, upon practicable notice to the Class, such as on the Court and Settlement websites.
